Sanofi's Chris Mummery appointed Vice President

David Barnett, Area General Manager Northern Europe at GSK Consumer Healthcare, has been appointed as the new President of PAGB, the UK trade association for manufacturers of over-the-counter (OTC) medicines, self care medical devices and food supplements.

David takes over as President from Johnson & Johnson Ltd's Pat Smallcombe, who has been promoted to a new role as President One J&J, South East Asia.

David was previously PAGB President from 2013 to 2014, when he represented Novartis Consumer Health. He re-joined the Board as a Vice President in September 2016 on returning to the UK in his current role at GSK.

Chris Mummery, Head of Northern & Southern Europe and General Manager, Consumer Healthcare, UK & Ireland at Sanofi, has been appointed Vice President, alongside RB's Steve Troote who continues as Vice President.

David Barnett said: "I am delighted to have been appointed President of PAGB at such an important time for the consumer healthcare industry. With continued pressure on the NHS, the need to empower people to self care has never been greater; and with EU Exit negotiations underway it is vital PAGB member companies come together to ensure our views are well represented.

"I look forward to working with John Smith, the Board and the PAGB team to take forward the excellent work that is already underway to further the self care agenda and respond to the significant changes in the external environment."

Chris Mummery said: "I'm passionate about the role that self care can have in enriching people's lives. I'm very much looking forward to working with and supporting PAGB in what is an important and fast-changing time for our sector".

John Smith, PAGB Chief Executive, said: "Through PAGB, I have worked with David Barnett and Chris Mummery over a number of years and am delighted they have been appointed President and Vice President respectively. Their drive and experience will be valuable in helping PAGB deliver against our objectives in the run up to our centenary year in 2019.

"On behalf of the PAGB Board, I would like to congratulate Pat Smallcombe on his promotion and thank him for his contribution to PAGB."
